

> System and Service Monitoring

Keeping on top of your systems and services with
Chris Morris, Tues 25/4 @ 6.30pm in CG60

In any organisation dependent on its IT infrastructure it's essential to keep the systems and services available when they're needed. To assist with this, most organisations use automatic monitoring to detect system failures before users are themselves aware. Chris Morris will give a high-level overview of the sorts of monitoring that can be carried out, their advantages and disadvantages, and how this helps provide good services.

Tuesday 25th February, Talk @ 6.30pm in CG60.
Free pizza in ChemCafe from 6pm.
